Iain E MacLachlan

This image displays a fingering chart for the bagpipe tune 'The Boxing Day Reel'. The chart is organized into four systems, each consisting of two staves (treble and bass clef) and a series of vertical lines representing finger positions. The first system is marked with a '5' at the beginning. The second system is marked with a '9'. The third system is marked with a '13'. The chart uses numbers 0, 5, 6, 7, 9, and 4 to indicate specific fingerings for each note. The notation is presented in a clear, structured format, with each system of two staves and vertical lines. The first system starts with a '5' and the third system starts with a '13'. The numbers 0, 5, 6, 7, 9, and 4 are used to indicate fingerings for each note.
